Keymacro is an offline and encrypted password manager that supports many browsers, including Chrome, Opera, Firefox, IE and Safari. It protects the entered passwords, even if the file containing the password hashes is removed or deleted from the device. This means that you can safely back up your data and store a copy on cloud drives or external hard drives. The app stores your passwords and generates one-time passwords for websites. You are informed about pending tasks and can resume them at any time. Whenever the app starts and is running, a window is displayed which allows you to enter a new or to access an existing password. You can use a master password to quickly navigate among all stored credentials. Supported vary depending on your connection speed. Please do not use a production server as a staging server. If you are not using Microsoft Software Centre for installation/updates, please follow the information in this guide instead. Before the Windows Installer service is automatically started, it may not be the best idea to start multiple Windows Installer services at the same time. Each Windows Installer service runs in its own process and consumes memory. In addition, each service requires a configuration section for its settings. The .NET Framework and Visual Studio do not run on Mono. Use either Windows Installer or CAB files to deploy the application. The .NET Framework and Visual Studio do run on Wine. If you need to manually install the .NET Framework, use Microsoft's Windows Installer. For detailed instructions on using Wine and the .NET Framework, see: Using Windows Installer, you can install a program to a directory or to a removable media drive. You can also specify where to install the program's files and settings. It is possible to install Windows Installer on Windows systems that are not part of a domain. You can manually copy the necessary files to Windows Installer's temporary directory, but you must start Windows Installer with the /q parameter to avoid the installer's annoying UI while it is updating. You can use this command to start Windows Installer with the /q parameter.

msiexec.exe /i "MyInstaller.msi" /q

When you install .NET on a production server, you must enable auditing to be able to
