He has published more than 60 papers in prestigious peer-reviewed journals and has received several international awards. David Spencer is entering the top tier of academia at the University of Alberta. On Thursday, the NAIT-U of A Professor of Chemistry and Biochemistry was named as a new professor by the U of A. Spencer's appointment is effective Jan. 1, 2020, and he will teach and do research at the U of A. "It's a very prestigious award to be named the new professor by the University of Alberta," said Spencer. "I am honoured and humbled, especially given my being a newcomer. It's a wonderful start to my career here at the U of A." Spencer, who joined NAIT's faculty of chemistry and biochemistry as an assistant professor in 2016, has been an active member of the Canadian research community for nearly two decades. He has published more than 60 papers in prestigious peer-reviewed journals and has received several international awards. After earning his bachelor's degree from the University of Waterloo in 1994 and master's degree from the University of British Columbia in 1996, Spencer spent five years as a scientist at GlaxoSmithKline. His research focused on small molecules that inhibit HIV viral fusion. He also developed bioactive peptide-based therapeutics that can be used to treat neurological disorders such as Parkinson's disease and Alzheimer's disease. "I'm excited to be joining the U of A," said Spencer, who is making a quick transition to full time after spending the last three years studying the molecular factors that govern how organisms sense and respond to

What's New In?

Payara Only has maintenance planned for July Payara Next is supported as a OSS product. It's also a maintenance-free product. Upgrades are made automatically and automatically maintained by the JET database – this is true for both the download (and the online (versions. It does not rely on downloading binary updates. Therefore, as part of our summer plans we will not be making any updates to the OSS or Business versions of Payara (including the One/Developer, Payara Micro, Payara Server and Payara Micro) other than patches and security updates, and fixing bugs. Pitfalls of binary updates For the actual next release of Payara, we will be focusing on JET and backwards compatibility (relying on 8.0.3 or 8.0.4 for all non Java EE modules). So, once Payara Next comes out, it will include the fixes for the web profile (useful for the application server alone) and for the web profile module (compatible for the next version of Glassfish and WildFly). For Payara, on the other hand, users can upgrade from 8.0.2 and gain the latest fixes (making it the same as the JET version of Payara 8). However, at Payara, we do not offer binary updates, because most users will benefit from the latest version anyway. The maintenance update for 8.0.3 is planned for the 9th of July. Use cases We will continue to support the 7.x to 8.0.x releases and plan to do the same for 8.1, however, the deadline for Payara 8 support is 18th of August. We have not made a final decision yet and will start releasing the first hotfix for 8.0.3 when we have more details. I'm wondering which feature plan would you prefer to have in Payara Only? This could be a draft blog entry. The proposal might be picked up and presented as a feature in Payara next. @Srdjan I can't answer on what feature we want to prioritize in Payara Only but I agree that feature should not be lost. About Payara for the next version We're also working on a plan for the next version.
