Class Features

An epic fantasy action RPG that lets you create your own character.

The skill tree of the class system is composed of various prominent keywords of existing classes. As a result, your class can always be developed according to your play style. Myths of the world spread around you help bring out your combat prowess, such as Vanish, a skill that allows you to vanish into the shadows when the time arises, allowing you to safely approach the enemy.

In addition to attacking the enemy directly, you can also cast powerful magic. With spells that step in smoothly between the role that casters play in the world of summoners and the role that mages play, you will be able to fight together with others without separating.

On battle fields of 50X50 meters in size, the detailed situations and environments make for a fun battle. The detailed class feature system will let you obtain ability materials through battle, and offers various growth rates in the arena and in the class itself.

By keeping the class features that you would like to have in mind at hand, you can freely develop your class.

Deep Combat System

The dedicated attacks for the class, monsters, weapons, and items step in smoothly between a wide variety of situations. With fighting styles such as light sword that can handle enemy monsters from a distance, light armor that deals higher damage to monsters closer to you, and heavy crossbow that deals higher damage to tall and faraway monsters, you will never lose your cool. With the magic element, you can freely set your own strategy in each situation as you fight with partners or enemies.

We're well aware that many of you are looking forward to ESO's upcoming content additions to Tamriel's capital city of Daggerfall and the nearby countryside. We're planning to reward our players who have been patiently waiting for these in March. In an effort to ensure we bring the maximum amount of experience into Daggerfall and the surrounding regions, we're reducing the amount of content that will be released in the following two updates. However, the same content that we do not release in March will be released in the next two big updates throughout the summer. To continue to ensure the appropriate number of skilled mages are available for the launch of the Templar Order, we will be reducing the number of Windspear Mages available through the Season of the Dragon (pending the addition of a third Windspear Mage class in the near future). We will not be reducing the number of Windspear Mages or other classes available to join the Order until the current Season of the Dragon begins. Free-to-Play Players As free-to-play players continue to expand across ESO, we are constantly striving to ensure that all our players have what they need to enjoy ESO's content. We are pleased to announce that we have boosted the purchase power of our in-game cash by 20%.

(C) Type-Moon, Inc

☐c) Fate/stay night ☐(C) Fate/stay night 2014It Was A Dream The dream of freedom. The freedom from the constraints of society. They had seen the corruption of nobility, and had rejected it. They had realized that the self depended, not on the domineering will of another, but on one's own strength, will, knowledge and acceptance of one's own life. For, in the Masnovy World, death was abolished. There was no concept of what it was; life as we know it was. What is death, when one desires freedom and no limits? In the face of no limits, there lies no possibility of death. It was a dream, set free. The Masnovy World, a culture of rebellion, beauty, art, martial strength, academics, family and love. But I've got a slightly better solution and that's to point a light source at the side of the library, like shown above. Because of the all-encompassing flat wall behind it, the resulting light pattern depends very little on the size and properties of the source, so it's very easy to adjust. You don't need a decent amount of light, 3-4 CRI is usually enough. Naturally, this works just fine if there is a pretty bright window behind the books and you want to maximize the amount of light getting in to a room, but it's supposed to be ok even if the window behind the books doesn't provide enough light. The light source also doesn't need to be really bright, in fact it should be nearly impossible to read books in front of it. If you have too strong background light, the solution is obviously not to use the light, but just cover the front of the books. A video showing the effect: Edit: after doing some research I found out that it is actually harder than I anticipated to get really white light out of LEDs. Nowadays they all have a few more colors compared to traditional white incandescents, this is from a thing I read a couple years ago. The reason is because the human eye has a considerably good C
