ESET Endpoint Security Keygen/Activation Key/Registration/License Keys/. This invention relates to capacitance sensing systems. Sensing systems exist that detect a change in capacitance within a sensor. Capacitance sensors are used to measure physical properties including mechanical properties, optical properties, and electrical properties. Sensing systems exist that measure the change in capacitance of a sensor in response to a stimulus, such as an object or person touching the sensor. U.S. Pat. No. 5,305,017 to Walsh and U.S. Pat. No. 5,452,221 to Balter disclose capacitance sensing systems that measure a change in capacitance to detect a stimulus. Sensing systems exist that employ variable capacitance devices, such as, for example, a variable capacitance diode or a varactor diode. The capacitance of a variable capacitance diode is dependent on a control voltage applied to the diode
