Winter Wastelands is a retro adventure game, inspired by retro games from Atari, Nintendo, Sega and Spectrum. While exploring the world, the player must learn to solve a series of puzzles, including logical deductions, reverse-engineering and observation. The soundtrack was created by solo developer Michael Haapasaari, who also created the Game. These are the gameplay music tracks: 1. "Quest - Main Theme" The main theme in intro scene. 2. "Quest - Distant Theme" The distant theme in intro scene. 3. "Puzzle - Impossibilities" Puzzles. 4. "Quest - Moments" Moments in main story. 5. "Revenge - Vicious Theme" The theme in the revenge sequence. 6. "Quest - Intro" The intro theme. Winter Wastelands is a pure tribute to the classic game adventures. The game is played in a strict point-and-click 2d viewpoint, with the player controlling an orc named Clarence (and other playable characters). The game world is presented to the player in a 2d (or sometimes 3d) plane, where the terrain is one of several (infinitely many) fixed levels, which are accessed by small squares. All plot and story details are realized in a linear fashion: The player is presented only one scene at a time, where the player is required to locate an object or an object of a particular type and click on it to achieve a certain result. After which a new scene is initiated, and the cycle continues. Winter Wastelands is the first project written in the game engine LOOT, created by solo developer Michael Haapasaari and many other mods. The engine works with several game engines, most notable being the Game Maker 8. The LOOT editor allows the developer to simply drag a picture on the scene to place an object, and to put nodes on it to control what happens when that object is clicked. Winter Wastelands was released and published on Steam Store in 2018. Winter Wastelands game files are available on gamejolt.com. Other sources, such as dejavu.me, are irrelevant. All the music assets are original and not derivative: All the music assets were created from scratch by the developer. All the music assets in the game are intended to accompany the game and not to replace it. The tracks are not re-creations of music from a retro games: All the music is new, composed and performed by the developer,

You can continue your reading over here: ALADIN MATAIN | 17-17 It was the hues of desperation in Phillip's face as he tried to escape with Corey. Even if they escape soon their pal would be the next victim. They had to keep Philip under their eyes so they wouldn't get caught. It was a small hope but the best to stay alive. Philip closed his eyes in exhaustion from the long mission. he was in the outside of a prison. The color of his face was pale, Phillip was fated to die soon. He realized of the prison-like facility he was in. He heard doors slamming from every direction and he could hear the keys being turned, gears operating and chains sound. Above them all, the guard was walking back and forth. Only seconds to escape. If not he would be dead in the street. Philip opened his lips and said in his mind, "Thank you." Corey gave a soft smile. "Even if we cross the biggest ocean, we still come back to our mark. If we haven't we will also end up dead. Like I promised my mom, we will always be together." With the last breath Philip asked for a sign from the lord to be the one to end his days. He also requested for a sign that more send the man in orange. Corey answered back, "yes lord, I will bring him here with as much of our friends as possible" VICTORY | 18-04-18 Garrett couldn't help but sigh when he heard the news of the kid who he saved. Daniel. Despite his newfound love he was willing to do anything in order to protect him. He knew that the kid's life was in danger of being taken away of him. It was
