Q: Python: Values in input files and the model coefficients I have a CSV file, and in the first column is the name of a set of samples. The second and third column are the labels of the samples. In my program, I am using `sklearn.naive_bayes.GaussianNB` to predict the labels of the samples. The `sklearn.naive_bayes.GaussianNB` fit my data using the coefficients in my code. The CSV file that I am reading from has, for each sample, the x and y coordinates (from x=0 to 90). I am wondering how I can get all the samples in the CSV file to have the same encoding for the inputs (as I am using the x and y coordinates)? I thought about using `str.encode`, but that is just in one column of the CSV file.

A: As a quick example, say you have this CSV file:

Title	Description
The cow jumped over the moon	The cow jumped over the moon

And you use the `import csv` module to read this file. Then read the file into a pandas dataframe like this: `import pandas as pd df = pd.read_csv('path/to/file.csv')` Then, for each row in the dataframe, split the row by whites
