One of my main requirements is that I need to be able to simulate the following combinatorial problem: An array of n bits is given and we need to find out if there exists a string of length k such that the array of n bits can be generated by concatenating all n bits in the string with $n - k$ zeros. First of all, I know how to do this problem with a circuit using CNOTs and Hadamard-gates. Secondly, I am looking into using an array of half-a-qubit to represent a sequence of bits. But, I am not sure if this is the right way to go since if I were to give every qubit in the array a fixed phase (using the Hadamard gate), I won't be able to simulate the circuit. Any suggestions would be appreciated! A: You have expressed the problem correctly. The point is to 79a2804d6b
